

Box Office

In today's Netflix age, movies are easily accessed from the comfort of our own couches or even our beds. Yet even with this convenience, there is still an active audience that prefers heading to the theatre. It's all in the experience. People go to movie theatres to enjoy the feature film but it's much more than that. Cinemas offer an ambiance and atmosphere that simply cannot be recreated at home. To truly attract an audience, cinemas must ensure that the magic of the movies is felt from the moment they enter the box office.

Challenges

Client had an idea about the requirement and no technological solution for it. Also, this application runs all across a country in multiple locations and various devices. The main challenge was to manage the display in all the devices in all the locations.

Solution

We provided the client with both mobile and web based application. A portal was created for templates to publish which was developed on Asp.net MVC, JQuery, entity framework etc. For displaying the template at the TV, we created an android application and all the app is maintained through the portal
